Purpose of the meeting

The purpose of the meeting was for the Ombudsman's inquiry team to inspect the Council's files on requests for public access to documents related to the Eurogroup and the three bodies involved in the preparation of Eurogroup meetings [1]. The focus was on requests submitted after the Eurogroup adopted proactive transparency measures in February 2016. The inquiry team wanted to gain a better understanding of how the Council deals with such requests. They also wanted to find out what kind of documents related to these bodies are published or listed on the Council's document register.

A similar meeting took place between the Ombudsman's inquiry team and European Commission representatives on 15 July 2019.

Introduction and procedural information

The Ombudsman's inquiry team introduced themselves, thanked the Council representatives for receiving them, and set out the purpose of the meeting. They outlined the applicable rules for Ombudsman inspections and meetings, in particular that the Ombudsman will not disclose any information outside the Ombudsman's Office without the Council's prior agreement [2].

The inquiry team explained that they would draw up a report on the meeting to be sent to the Council.

Information exchanged

As an introduction, the representatives of the General Secretariat of the Council ('the Council') gave a short presentation on the nature and tasks of the three bodies at the centre of this strategic inquiry, namely the Eurogroup Working Group (EWG), the Economic and Financial Committee (EFC) and the Economic Policy Committee (EPC).

On access to documents requests received by the Council

The Council then explained that, since February 2016, it has received 14 requests for public access to around 90 Eurogroup, EWG, EFC and EPC documents [3]. Eleven of these requests were submitted by researchers/students, two by NGOs, and one by a law firm.

The majority of the requests for public access to documents were granted fully or partially. In one case, the Council received a confirmatory application after it had refused public access. At the confirmatory stage, the Council granted partial public access.

Where public access was denied, the Council relied either on the need to protect the financial, monetary or economic policy of the Union or a Member State [4] or on the need to protect its decision-making [5].

Regarding proactive publication, the Council explained that the majority of the requested documents had not been made public previously as they predate the Eurogroup's transparency initiative.

The Council had prepared a file containing:

- 1) The relevant requests for public access to documents from February 2016 to the present;
- 2) the decisions of the Council on those requests; and
- 3) the requested documents.

It was agreed that a copy of this file would be provided to the Ombudsman shortly after the meeting.

On the Council's management and publication of documents related to the Eurogroup in general

The Council noted that the Eurogroup is an informal gathering of Finance Ministers of the euro area which does not adopt formal decisions. The GSC provides logistics support (meetings are normally held in the Council buildings) as well as procedural assistance to the Eurogroup President, while secretarial tasks as regards substance are provided by the EFC secretariat [6] .

The Council's website includes a dedicated section for each Eurogroup meeting where preparatory documents and documents reflecting the outcome are available, including notably [7] :

- draft annotated agendas,
- lists of participants,
- background information and documents [8] ,
- remarks by the President,
- EG statements,
- press releases,
- summing-up letters.

Regarding the EPC and the EFC, the Council explained that only some of their work is Eurogroup-related. As provided for in their respective Statutes, their proceedings are generally confidential. As regards the EWG, the Council recalled that it is a special configuration of the EFC (composed only of the euro countries) and that, it is the entity which is mainly responsible for preparing the meetings of the Eurogroup. The EWG is a preparatory body of an informal gathering of Ministers. Asked by the Ombudsman's inquiry team, the GSC representatives confirmed that the EWG is not a preparatory body of the Council and is therefore not mentioned separately on the list of Council bodies [9]. The Council also referred to the ongoing reflection at Eurogroup level as regards the possibility of taking additional measures to further increase transparency of Eurogroup proceedings (also concerning the EWG work).

Regarding the public register of Council documents, the Council stated that, in principle, documents in relation to the performance of tasks of support to entities other than the Council, including the Eurogroup, are published in the register only if they have been submitted to the Council or circulated to delegations to serve as a basis for the Council's work. Documents published in the register include for instance:

- documents that relate to the work of the Eurogroup such as draft budgetary plans of Member States,
- documents that are, among other recipients, addressed to the Eurogroup for information, such as Commission communications/staff working documents/country reports (notably on the European Semester),
- other documents such as parliamentary questions which the GSC was entrusted to deal with or exchanges of letters of the Eurogroup President circulated to delegations.

The Council had prepared a file containing a list of documents that are listed or available on its register. A copy of this file was provided to the Ombudsman shortly after the meeting.

Conclusion

The Ombudsman's inquiry team thanked the Council representatives for their time and for the explanations provided, and the meeting ended.
